The Social Side of Washington.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Washington, August 26—With the proach of September, social activies are on the mild increase; this, too, greasional circle following the adjournment of the long drawn out extra-session of Congress. The latter was a veritable love feast at the close, the intense feeling which early in the session gave promise of a bitter har-vest that would extend even to the home fields having meited neath the presidential smile and the Vice-Presi-dent's daily draughts of parliamentary soothing SYUEP of Montana one writes in deference to her citizenship in that State, gained through her recent marriage with its senior representative in the United States Senate. Like Mrs. Crane, Mrs. Warren is very much of a Washingtonian, having spent considerable time here with her distinguished uncle, former Justiqe Brown, of the Federal Supreme Court, for whom she acted as hosiess during his widowhood.

Her welcome here as a bride will continue into the autumn, and she is not expected to assume the duties of a senatorial hostess until the regular session of Congress convenes in December, Meanwhile she will form more intimate acquaintance with her husband's constituents, and, quite as miportant, his first wife's family. Chief among the latter is Mrs. John Jershing, wife of the doughty general lavished with Rooseveltian favor into an army cause celebre.

Mrs. Pershing, before her marriage

Mrs. Pershing, before her marriage, and following her mother's death, was chatelaine of her father's home here, while her recently acquired stepmother was acting a similar role in the home of her uncle, Mr. Justice Brown. The two women are therefore nearly the same age, and should be the best of friends.

Mrs. Asbury Francis Lever, wife of Representative Lever, of South Carolina, became the "House" bride about the time Mrs. Warren entered the senatorial circle, and in the vernacular of the school girl the race between the friends of the two has been "nip and tuck" to see which would have the most entertainments given in her honor.

Mrs. Alexander Sharp, who was Miss Cornelia Janin, the former Miss Dorothy Langfitt, who became the wife of Lieutenant Francis B Whby in June, and Mrs. Victor S. Foster, formerly Lucie Gerrard, of Fort Myer, are the "service" brides in whose honor society is keeping the ball rolling through the summer into autumn.

Washington, August 26—with the proach of September, social activises are on the mid increase: this, too, espite the general exodus of the conversional circle foligwing the advantment of the long drawn out extra existing of the long drawn out extra existing of the long drawn out extra existing of the long fear at the later was a critable foor fear at the later with the later was a critable foor fear at the later was a critable foor fear at the later was a critable foor fear at the later with later was a critable foor fear at the distribution of the later was a critable foor fear at the distribution of the later was a critable foor fear at the distribution of the later was a critable foor fear at the distribution of the later was a critable foor fear at the distribution of the later was a critable foor fear at the distribution of the later was a critable foor fear at the distribution of the later was a critable foor fear at the distribution of the later was a critable foor fear at the distribution of the distribution of the later was a critable foor fear was a critable foor fea ment of Congress, gave officialdom an uneasy afternoon recently by getting lost in the Maryland woods, through which he essayed to penetrate in a motor car. The expedition was part of the last lap in a trip from New Kittrell, N. C.

Tork, whither he had gone to meet the Japanese naval hero, Admiral Togo.

Madame Calderon, the Bol vian minister's bride of little more than a year, is spending several weeks with relatives in New York, and incidentally having her winter wardrobe planned. Miss Elena Calderon, her lovely young stepdaughter, who has been the gust of Mrs. Hannis Taylor and Miss Taylor, at Capon Springs, W. Va. has returned to preside over the legation during madamie's absence.

Many interesting changes in the diplomatic service were announced by Congress at its close, and Washington Just now has a number of visiting ambassadors, ministers and consuls, who, while making their official calls on the President and Secretary of State, are being entertained continuously; of course, intermally. One change of particular interest here is the appointment of Willing Spencer as second secretary to the embassy at Berlin, to which Mr. Leishman, the new ambassadors, succeeded Dr. David J. Hill. Connected with nevs of his promotion is the well defined rumor that Mr. Spencer words, society anticipates the speedy confirmation of his engagement to Miss Allice Myer, daughter of the Secretary of the Navy, and hopes to hear the sound of their wedding bells in the early autumn.
